Principles and Goals

1. The mandate for the coalition of Moral Forces for Sustainability is to promote the simple truth that the essence of sustainability is morality.
2. Rural communities are entitled to the goods and services essential to a decent quality of life, including livelihoods and employment opportunities, education, health, shelter, energy security and access to advanced technologies.
3. Civil society and community-based organizations (CSOs and CBOs) are instrumental in the sustainable development of rural communities and government policy should support their proliferation and sustainability.
4. The socioeconomic and environmental health of rural communities depend on participative control and use of resources by rural people, including farmers, artisans, academic communities, local businesses and working people of all walks of life.
5. The government is responsible for ensuring the rights of all its citizens—especially the marginal members in rural communities—and to help secure the fulfillment of these rights.

By signing the form, you confirm that you agree with these objectives and ethics.
